CICL Constitution UPDATES

DUES (effective 10/31/14)

The approved proposal removes two sentences from the CICL constitution and replaces them as follows.

- Remove from "II. League Functions, B. League Funds, 1. Dues." these sentences: Veteran teams must pay their dues to the League treasurer prior to the start of the third month of the playing season, and new teams must pay prior any matches being played. Teams not paying their dues by the required date will be ineligible for further competition until their dues are paid.

- Replace the above sentences with the following two paragraphs:

New teams must pay their dues prior to any matches being played.

For veteran teams: dues will need to be postmarked by October 31. For the purposes of this rule, any payment by mail that is postmarked by a certain date is considered to have been paid by that date. Any dues postmarked or paid in person between November 1 and November 30 will require a $25 late fee in addition to the annual dues. Teams not paying their dues and any applicable late fees by November 30 will be ineligible from further competition including the postseason. All matches already played by teams that have not fully paid their dues and any applicable late fees by November 30 will be retroactively forfeited on December 1. Individual game results and ratings will not be altered by such match forfeits.

The result of the vote on the proposal to change the CICL's constitution regarding dues was: YES - 14 (all teams now in the CICL, except the 6 listed below) NO - 0 ABSTAIN (or abstain to vote) - 2 (Hedgehogs and Wombats)

A vote was not received from these 4 teams: DRW, Enova, Pawns, Tyros. (If the captain of one of these teams voted but it somehow was lost in email, let me now asap.) The proposal is approved and takes effect immediately.

Special thanks to our committee who created the proposal: Andy Mosley, Art Olsen, Chuck Dobrovolny, Greg Bungo, Irwin Gaines, Jeff Wiewel, Jim Thomson, and Tony Jasaitis.

CASTLING (effective 01/01/15)

Similar to the new rule adopted by the United States Chess Federation, when castling, CICL players must touch the king first (or the king and rook at the same time).

If the player touches the rook first, castling with that rook is not allowed, and the touch move rule is applied to the rook.

Hedgehogs topple Division Champs DRW Trading

A match recap by Tony Jasaitis, Captain, Hedgehogs

Fresh from knocking off their rival 2nd-place team Rogue Squadron last week, last year's division champion DRW Trading was looking to do the same or worse to us lowly Hedgehogs. They came bravely, despite the fact that our playing site was plagued by snafus, including the security desk misplacing visitor registrations, malfunctioning elevators, an emergency communication system, complete with flashing lights and audio, that tested the concentration of the players!

With the latest alumni additions from collapsed teams, we have improved depth on the lower boards, which was reflected on our October 7th match, as 3 of our 3.5 points came from the bottom half of the lineup. Our latest member Fred Furtner (formerly of AMATS) started us off with a lead that never looked back, winning on board 5 with the FrenchDefense over Oliver Gungenheim.

Andrey Puzanov (from AMATS and LOYOLA) padded the lead, besting Andrey Popov's Najdorf Sicilian on board 4 (the battle of the Andrey P's!)

While the other boards were fairly closely matched, Tony Jasaitis faced the East division's highest rated player on board 1, Igor Tsyganove. Tony improvised an overly aggressive ....c5 response to an early b4 attack against his Dutch Defense, resulting in a couple of pawn weaknesses that were slowly exploited in masterly fashion, culminating in a decisive sham rook sacrifice that put him out of his misery.

Milan Kratka got HEDGE's our 3rd point on board 6, winning a pawn early from Bill Caputo with the c3 variation vs the Sicilian Defense, later winning an exchange and on to win the endgame.

On board 3, Mark Coleman (from AMATS) slowly succumbed to Eugene Gorodetsky's Closed Variation of the Ruy Lopez.

With the score 3-2, HEDGE just need a draw on board 2, where Eric Lindauer took on the Lyle Hayhurst's Benko Gambit. Lindauer held on to the extra pawn all the way into the endgame, but with all the pawns on the same side of the board, looking like a draw with a Rook per side still in the game. While all that was needed was a draw, Eric pressed on until the 104th move of the game trying to squeeze out a win, which did not materialize. [Hey, how about some consideration to the rest of us to get home at a reasonable hour?]

The sleep-deprived hedgehogs were delighted with their victory!

Interviews with Officers

Name: Brian Smith Position: League President Team: Downers Grove Chess Club CICL Rating: 1621

What music do you like to listen to?

Besides family and health, music is my top passion and priority. I listen to all kinds of good stuff. Lately I've especially enjoyed Motown and Mozart, Lyle Lovett and Jimmy Webb, Basie and Beethoven.

How long have you been playing in the CICL?

I started in 1980, but took some years off.

Who is your favorite chess player of all time?

Among the best players of all time, I admire and enjoy the games of so many. I might be able to narrow my favorites down to a top ten list. The chess player who thought of the idea of the CICL and was one of its primary founders, Miroslav "Mirko" Mejzr, is a favorite.

Is there a chess book that had a profound influence on you?

In the 1970s, Ludek Pachman's "Modern Chess Strategy" opened my eyes that chess is about much more than tactics and memorizing a small number of opening moves.

Is there another skill or game you'd like to learn?

Songwriting.

If you could choose a superpower, what would it be?

Swim like a fish or Aquaman.

Would you use your superpower in your chess game?

I play chess like a fish already.

What do you think chess players are particularly good at (other than chess):

Citing quotes. For example, "Never make a good move too soon." - James Mason. Or, "You must take your opponent into a deep dark forest where 2+2=5, and the path leading out is only wide enough for one." - Mikhail Tal.

If you could rename your CICL team any name, what would it be?

I suppose "The Most Fun and Friendly Group of Guys and Gals Who Play Great Chess Together" would be bit long.

What do you see as your best result ever (in or outside the CICL)?

My draw in the final round of the 2013 playoffs was exciting (including a knight sacrifice by me) and helped our team win the league championship.

"What's Your Style?"

Styles make fights. This was true since the beginnings of chess and remains true in MMA events. There are obvious issues that a boxer will have with a kicker or wrestler. These same issues exist when a theoretical player is forced to leave book preparation early. Even fighters with similar skills, like Judo and Brazilian Jujitsu competitors, have difficulty experience time trouble. Judo referees do not allow the fighters a lot of time to execute ground techniques, so Judoka are violent and quick with their moves. BJJ players take their time and generally maneuver slowly taking minutes just to setup the setup to a sweep.

In my experience with both chess and martial arts competition, the determining factors are the four "S": speed, strength, skill, and spirit. Strength in chess corresponds to stamina, endurance, and focus. We all have dropped material, and mishandled known positions through fatigue and other physical factors. The ability to calculate deep lines in all three stages of the game is a testament to one's strength. There have been a few articles in recent times praising the older Super GMs who are defying the recognized natural decrease in physical/mental acuity.

Skill is pure knowledge of positions, technique, and tactical understanding. There are those players who just memorize lines, and there are players who understand the reasoning behind those lines. While a win is a win, I appreciate those players who can explain the how and why of the game.

The bridge between the physical/psychological strength of players and the knowledge that they have is their speed. Think about the player at the club who has no opening theory yet can sit and, through raw calculation alone, find the way to a win. Also that Expert player who can spot the error in the position even though they don't know how to capitalize on it until 10-20 moves later. These are two different skills but the balance between them is speed. How long it takes one to calculate variations or to recognize that a change in the position has occurred are both maintained by speed. This means that a calculating machine able to quickly spit out lines can beat a theoretically stronger opponent who can recognize the worse position but cannot successful calculate through the complications.

The result of the four S's should exhibit one's style. Your abilities make your style and it should not be the other way around. It is when players force openings and study habits that contradict their abilities that growth and progress is stunted. The Sicilian Dragon, (sorry, not Bruce Lee), will help demonstrate how one can define one's style.

Sicilian Dragon Opening:

1. e4 c5 2. d4 cxd4 3. Nf3 d6 4. Nxd4 Nf6 5. Nc3 g6 6. Be3 Bg7 7. f3 Nc6 8. Qd2 0-0 (Diagram next page)

Position after 8...0-0

WHITE is wondering "Which way to castle? Do I want to spend 3 moves with the Bishop on f1 to c4, or will Be2 suffice? What is the outcome of ...d5 if 0-0-0? Do I want to try something new to surprise this underrated player like g4 or h4? How do I not fall into any traps because I'm facing a Master?! What value is the Be6 after 0-0-0, I saw it on that DVD and didn't plan a response?"

It is not your style to play the Yugoslav Attack. It is your style to make the game sharp with many variations and possibilities for both sides. It is your style to eliminate Black's counter play with a solid bunker. It is your style to prepare deep and calculate quickly because you know your endgame is lacking.

9. 0-0-0 Bd7 10. g4 Qa5 11. h4 Rfc8 12. Kb1 Ne5 13. h5

BLACK is wondering, "Should I continue with the Nc4 line? Is White's attack sound? Does the regulation Rc3 sac work in this position? Can I slow down White's attack with my attack? Is there a way to clear the way for my Dragon Bishop to use the diagonal?"

In reference to the last question, if 13... Nf3 what will the resulting position become, and who is better? The strong players can calculate through this. The theoretical won't and will assess the known strengths and weaknesses. Those who need time will take out their boards and coffee. Those who feel that thing inside them boiling will find new abilities in this pseudo 20 minute exercise. Either way this is your style. Would you make this sac as Black? Do you fear sacs like this as White? How well do you understand the imbalance in the final position? Do you look for novelties? Do you prep for opponents or for tournaments as a whole? The path to the black belt is understanding clearly what you know and what you can do. Then you turn your abilities into your style, your system, your game, and your wins.

UPCOMING TOURNAMENTS

Individual Tournament, Sunday, December 28th, at Benedictine University.

No CICL match scheduled for your team over the Holidays? Looking for some chess action between celebrations? Here you go -- there will be a CICL tournament for individuals on Sunday, December 28, 2014 in west suburb Lisle.

About the CICL section of this tournament:

- It will be CICL rated.

- Three games will be played, using a time control of G/60 + 5 second delay (and swiss system pairings).

- It is open to all members of the CICL (and only to CICL members).

- It is free, no entry fee.

- Trophies will be awarded to the top finishers.

- It is organized by Jeff DiOrio, a member of St. Charles Chess Club's CICL team and president of Elite Chess.

- Location is Benedictine University - Krasa Center - 5700 College Rd, Lisle, IL 60532

- It does not require USCF membership. (At the same time and venue, there will also be USCF sections, which do require USCF membership, plus unrated scholastic sections.) The top USCF section is the 3rd Annual DuPage County Chess Championship.

- To register, go online at http://elitechess.net/DCCCinfo.php This webpage has more info too.

Hope to see lots of you there!
